

THE BENTON COUNTY
DAILY RECORD

Imaginative land development

Daily Record photograph by David Frank Dempsey

Given a drawing board representing land with river frontage, and $1 million for building whatever he wanted on it, Sugar Creek student Zack Cross, 11, drew a monster house, a three-headed mutant shark and a deep-space squid, among other things. Cross and fellow students then showed their drawings to a Natural Resources Conservation Service representative who explained the Impact their land developments would have on the river and those living downstream. Cross and other fourth-graders from Centerton-Gamble, Central Park, Baker and Sugar Creek elementary schools attended the Make A Splash with the Project WET Sustainability 360 Festival at the old Tiger Stadium site in Bentonville on Friday.
